RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 42 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : U. S. Dept. of Education, Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Office of Special Education Programs, 2008 printing OCLC Number: (OCoLC)271240723 Subject: Attention-deficit-disordered children -- Education -- United States. Excerpt: . . . Lower noise level. Monitor the noise level in the classroom, and provide corrective feedback, as needed. If the noise level exceeds the level appropriate for the type of lesson, remind all students - or individual students - about the behavioral rules stated at the beginning of the lesson. Divide work into smaller units. Break down assignments into smaller, less complex tasks. For example, allow students to complete five math problems before presenting them with the remaining five problems. Highlight key points. Highlight key words in the instructions on worksheets to help the child with ADHD focus on the directions. Prepare the worksheet before the lesson begins, or underline key words as you and the child read the directions together. When reading, show children how to identify and highlight a key sentence, or have them write it on a separate piece of paper, before asking for a summary of the entire book. In math, show children how to underline the important facts and operations; in Mary has two apples, and John has three, underline two, and, and three. Eliminate or reduce frequency of timed tests. Tests that are timed may not allow children with ADHD to demonstrate what they truly know due to their potential preoccupation with elapsed time. Allow students with ADHD more time to complete quizzes and tests in order to eliminate test anxiety, and provide them with other opportunities, methods, or test formats to demonstrate their knowledge. Use cooperative learning strategies. Have students work...
