RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 60 pages. OCLC Number: 55797458 Excerpt: . . . 4 The remainder of opening statements will be limited to 3 min-utes. Hopefully, many of you will defer to that 8 minute period of questioning. And without objection, all the opening statements of all members of the panel will be made a part of the record, including this one by Mr. Dingell. The Chair now recognize Ms. Buyer for an opening statement. All right. Lets see, Ms. Capps for an opening statement. Ms. C. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. And thank you also, Di-APPS rector Zerhouni for making yourself available to us today. We ap-preciate your time and your willingness to share your expertise. And like, I would venture to say every member, I am a very proud supporter of the NIH and the work you do there. And Na-tional Institutes of Health are truly the crown jewels of the Federal Government. The United States has some of the best medical research in the world, and much of the most advanced health care is available to some here. These achievements are directly the result of the amaz-ing job that the National Institutes of Health has done and the re-searches that Congress has provided them. And I think of this often when we see a lot of bashing of government. I always think to myself and say to as many people as I can, if you ever question the use of public funds, look at the National Institutes of Health. The Congress has just completed the doubling of the NIH budget. It shows you the bipartisan support for it. But I hope that this does mean that we will think our job is done and shortchange the NIH on funding now....
